Richmond, Va., November 30.—Several months are Willis B. Smith, a lawyer of Chesterfield county, began suit in the chancery court in this city against Mason and others in connection with the settlement of the state debt. Among those who were summoned to appear in court was President-elect Cleveland as a member of the advisory committee to the Olcott committee. The summons is returnable on the first day of the December term, next month.

President-elect Cleveland will have to spear in person unless the judge allows him to be represented by counsel.

Indeed, it is now assured that there will be no opposition. All those who support-Washington. November 30.—'The Panama controversy is sure to create disagreeable relations between the tweenments of the United States and France,' said Senator John T. Morgan today.

Senator Morgan is a member of the committee on foreign relations, and is anusually well informed on international issues. He is the first democrat on the committee, and is likely to have the chairmanship when the next congress is organized.

"It does not matter whether we have an interest in the Fanama railroad to the extent of one dollar or not,' said he, 'or whether the business men of this country have any use for that route or not, the dignity of this government requires that it maintain its political relations there. What an absurdity it is to imagine that the Fanama railroad, which is at present controlled by France, should be allowed to discriminate against the United States in transporting merchandise across the isthmus while we are holding the position of a protectorate over the country.

years ago, when a $500 platform was erected and hundreds of people from all over the state came to see the "plow-boy governor" inaugurated.

After the oath of office was administered, the governor made his inaugural address, in the course of which he said:

These have been troublous times in South Carolina, times of deep agitation, discussion, aggressive thought combatting with conservative thought. I have been put forward as the exponent of that demand in the state which seeks for better things, for improvement and progress, and to the best of my ability I have consulted the people of this state on the way which I believe will lead to improvement. My past must be a guarantee for my future.

In the house today, Representative Lawrance, of Columbia, introduced a bill providing that as it has been impossible to dispose of new state bonds and as the state intends to meet every obligation, the state treasurer shall publish a notice that all bonds which are not met at maturity will be, at the option of the holder, extended for four years at the same rate of interest.

A bill to redistrict the state was introduced today, and it is said that some designs against Charleston are contemplated.

A bill has been introduced to authorize anybody to kill any dog found without a badge on its neck, to be obtained from the clerk of court for $1.

Twelve free badges are allowed in each couty for fox hounds.

After two days of voice testing the house today elected John S. Withers, of Chester, reading clerk.

WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Its Annual Meeting Yesterday—General Manager Smith Retires.

Detroit, Mich., November 30.—The regular annual meeting of the western asso-ciated Press was held here today with the largest attendance ever held. Great interlargest attendance ever held. Great interest is centered in the meeting on account of the agitation pervading press circles throughout the country and the tendency towards a new combination. The membership of the Western Associated Press was divided as to the best course to pursue on this account. The plan for readustment proposed by the special committee appointed to formulate one was antagonized by some of the members who thought it wiser to athere to the policy that was successful for many years. These were led with ability by Mr. R. W. Patterson, of Chicago; Mr. D. M. Houser, of St. Louis; Mr. W. J. Murphy, of Minneapolis; Mr. Scripps, of Detroit, and Mr. H. M. DeYoung, of San Francisco.

go; Mr. D. M. Houser, of St. Louis; Mr. W. J. Murphy, of Minneapolis; Mr. Scripps, of Detroit, and Mr. H. M. DeYoung, of San Francisco.

A very full discussion was had, extending over three days here and in Chicago and every interest involved was accorded a hearing. Good feeling prevailed and the result was the approval of the policy recommended by the special committe on reorganization in which there was practically a unanimous acquiescence.

Mr. Victor F. Lawson, chairman of the executive committee, made a full report of the work of the past year, which was unanimously approved. The report of the general manager showled the affairs of the association to be in a prosperous condition and its business rapidly increasing. The old hoard of directors was re-elected as follows: Albert J. Barr, of Pittsburg Post; W. A. Collier, of Memphis, Appeal-Avalanche; M. H. DeYoung of The San Francisco Chronicle; Frederick Driscoll of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press; Charles W. Knapp, of The St. Louis Republic; Victor F. Lawson, of The Chicago News, and Eugene H. Perdue, of The Cleveland Leader.

In making his report, the general manager announced his purpose to retire from active journalism as he felt he had earned the right to a few years' leisure. Subsequently a committee was appointed to draw up resolutions, bearing upog Mr. Smith's retiracy. The following report was made, unanimously adopted and directed to he spread upon the minutes. The committee was requested to have a copy engrossed, signed by the officers and sent to Mr. Smith: The Western Associated Press learns with regret that William Henry Smith, its general manager, irtcuts to withdraw from active newspaper work. NICARAGUA CAMAL CONVENTION.

First Day's Session Over Five Hundred Delegates.

New Orleans, November 30.—The National Robert of the Convention was called to order by President J. Odenthal, of the State of trade of trade, at Odd Fellows hall. The hall was magnificently decorated for the occasion.

On the platform were city and state officials, including Governor Murphy J. Foster, Hon. George T. Converse, permanent chairman of the St. Louis convention, and Gevernor Fleming, of Plorida. Seats reported so far in the convention with the number of delegates are as follows:

Arkansas 2, Alabama 2, California 11, Washington, D. C., 11, Florida 16, Georgia 5, Illinois 11, Iowa 14, Indiana 2, Kentucky 3, Kansas 11, Louisiana 150, Mississippi 19, Missouri 8, Michigan 3, New York 15, Nebraska 1, North Carolina 11, Tennesse 10, Texas 15, Virginia 3, making a total of 336. Lev. H. H. Parks, of the Athens district, was manifested at seeing these brothers in Georgia.

Again having resumed business under the head of "presiding elders' reports." Rev. M. J. Cofer, of the Dahlonega district, stated that his charge was in a prosperous condition and remarked that the mountain boys were the future hope of Methodism; that they were used to bread and water, and were possessed of great powers of endurance. Not being accustomed to much at home they didn't want the earth, and when they happened to be in foreign precincts.

Norfolk, Va., November 30.—The United States circuit court grand jury today returned indictments against Robert Taylor and Joseph H. Hulcer, Judges of election for Jackson ward, of Richmond, and Messra, James Lyons, Jr., and William J. Orange, citizens of Richmond, for violation of the federal election laws. The offense charged against the two judges is that having ordered several deputy marshals from the polis and said deputies refusing to obey their orders were committed to the city jail of Richmond under the state law which confers that authority upon all judges of election. Messrs, Lyons and Orange took the marshals to jail as directed by the judges, hence their indictment.

The legality of the supervisors' and marshals' authority will be tested in these cases.

—Tom and Walter Tolbert—for whom exciting chases for a month past have been made, are captured and at present are safely lodged in the Lauderdale county jail. The facts are still fresh in the public mind how on November 4th Tom Tolbert, an escaped convict, and his brother, John Tolbert, opened fire on Tom Donald and Will Spinks, deputy sheriffs. The fire was returned and John Tolbert killed. A posse was next morning attacked by the Tolberts and Tom Cole was killed. So enraged did the county become that old man Tolbert was hung. Since then the chase has not been relaxed. Last night just after midnight a posse visited the house of Elisha Johnson, in Neshoba county, twenty-six miles from here, where the Tolberts were concealed, and while searching the house both Tolberts jumped out, of the back window and on being discovered a battle ensued. searching the house both Tolberts jumped out of the back window and on being discovered a battle ensued. Tom was shot all over his body, in the thighs, arms and legs, receiving six or eight buckshot, but made his escape. Today, however, realizing his need of attention, he decided to surrender, which he and Walter did to W. C. Hale, postmaster of Rio, and B. F. King, postmaster of Calverts, who brought the prisoners here.

At first they were carried to the Culpepper house, but on attempting to remove them to jail, a desperate effort was made by a hastily collected crowd to lynch the prisoners. The excitement was intense as the rush was made, and but for the bravery of the captors, and Justice Spinks, who drew weapons and proposed to defend the prisoners to the death, the attempt would have proved successful. Doubtless, further attempts will be made during the night.

Tom Tolbert, who is a burly man of twenty-two years old, will be delivered to the warden of the Jackson penitentiary to serve out a life sentence. The reward for him is $500. Walter, a slip of a boy, nineteen, years old, will be taken to Kemper county to stand trial for the murder of Tom Chem The county have offered $500 reward for the capture of both.

The experiences of the Tolberts for the month is full of exciting events. Often they have spent sheepless nights, wandering through the woods in search of safe shelter, going cold and hungry. When captured, both men showed signs of the great privation and fatigue and carried evidence of not having had a change of linen during the month. When seen by your correspondent at jail both men were reasonably cheerful and showed no hesitation in talking over their past lives.

A STARTLING DISCOVERY

lade After Extinguishing a Fire in Cincin nati-Plan of the Incendiary. Cincinnati, O., November 30 .- At 2 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in a gro-cery store on Elm street, kept by Mrs. Solomon Levy. The fire department, after much difficulty, succeeded in taking from the building sixty people who were sleeping when the fire was discovered. The fire was a peculiar and dangerous one. After the flames had been extinguished an examination was made and developments of a startling character brought to light.

Early last evening Mrs. Levy left home to attend a ball, leaving her daughter in charge of the store. The young lady left the building at 9 o'clock, after having made every preparation for the burning of the building. Cotton waste saturated with coal oil was placed in drawers and other places about the store and in each pile of waste was a lighted caudle so placed and timed that the flames would reach the oil saturated waste about 2 o'clock. That far the plan was successful and only the vigilance of a police officer in discovering the fire saved the building and its inhabitants. The daughter cannot be found, but Mrs. Levy has been arrested. She is, however, too hysterical to make a statement, though what she has said confirms these statements.

Poix, Leon Renault and Count Rochefoucault: "My acquaintance with the gentiemen mentioned is most formal. I know their wives slightly, but the husbands have never been in my house. This is also only another instance of Mr. Deacon's infamy. In regard to the refusal of the convent authorities to again receive my daughter Gladys, Mr. Deacon's conduct was so scandalous that the mother superior, who is a good friend of mine, very properly refused to keep the child. She told Mr. Deacon when he called of the course she would be obliged to pursue if he persisted in his confidences to the press."

WHITE CAPS IN INDIANA.

A Novel Method of Breaking Up a Marriage Pupsgement.

Richmond, Ind., November 30.—A case of genuine white capping occurred last night, in which a mob of men went so far as to kidnap George M. Harris, tie him and place him in a carriage, drive him outside the city limits and put a rope around his neck, Harris begged piteously for his life and was finally released on the promise that he would break off an engagement with Mrs. Maggie Rogers and leave the city at once. Harris recently came here and members of the mob objected to his marriage to the lady, claiming that he meant to defraud her out of her property.

Another Valuable Stone Identified—Mudnall Still at Large.

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 30.—(Special.)—The report which has gained some currency to the effect that the woman involved in the recent diamond robbery and was being defended by Chattanooga's chief resultsofdcil of police, and is entirely erroneous and is the result, probably, of the retention, as her counsel, of E. S. Daniels, a prominent attorney who is a member of the police commission. The wife of the plunger, Mrs. Hudnall, has been guarded day and night in her apartments in a private house. This afternoon she was taken seriously ill with nervous prostration, attended by violent fever, necessitating the constant attention tonight of a physician.

Another of the handsome gems recovered was identified today by a telegram from Mr. McCrary, of Houston, Tex., who was relieved of the stone during the Memphis maces. The message describes the gem and is setting most minutely.

Nothing has been heard from Hudnall and it appears that the slick individual has made well his escape.

the Gallows.

Denver, November 30.—In the case of William F. Roberts versus Mary Roberts, the court of appeals has decided that the divorce granted by the lower court is void. Roberts is under sentence of death for the murder of Heary Kaippla. An appeal for a new trial is pending in the supreme court. Mary Roberts, by this decision, is declared the lawful wife of the condemned man, and, as such, is not privileged to testify against her husband. It was on her evidence that Roberts was convicted, and, aside from her testimony, there was no legal proof that Roberts committed the deed. The decision will have an important bearing upon the appeal now pending in the supreme court. The probability is that, with Mrs. Roberts's testimony stricken from the records, the charge of murder cannot be proven.

ORANGE GROWERS SMILE

Because There is a Chance of Getting a Rebate on Freight Paid.

Jacksonville, Fla., November 30.—(Special.)—In court today Judge Swayne made an order sustaining the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the famouse crange rates stits. This order enjoins the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway Company and the Ocean Steamship Company from charging a higher frieght rate on oranges to eastern points than that allowed by the commission to be "just and reasonable." Prior to 1890 the rate had been 30 cents per box to New York and proportionately to all eastern points. In November of that year all railway and steamship lines made a combine, raising the rate to 40 cents. An appeal was taken to the interstate commission which some months later rendered a dicision establishing the rate of 25 cents to New York and proportionately to other eastern points. The commission is, however, not clothed by law with the power to enforce its decisions and the plaintiff, the Florida fruit exchange of this city, took the case to the United States court. By today's order of the court a rebate of 5 cents per box is ordered paid to all eastern shippers of fruit since November 1, 1890. This will aggregate $20,000 for the two years to be distributed to the growers and shippers of oranges in this state, and nearly $25,000 on fruit shipped so far this season.

The order goes into effect tomorrow and will stand unless, 1200 and annual being taken to the supreme court, this ruling should be reversed. The transportation lines are also ordered to pay the counsel fees of the plaintiff, $5,000 and costs. Congressman-elect Cooper, of the second Florids district, argued the case for the plaintiffs, 2nd Hon. J. E. Hartridge for the defendants.

Major Bacon, of Bibb, had floor and succeeded in pushing colossal railroad bills through house with an overpowering vote.

The first of his bills was the one to limit the issuance of stocks and bonds, and the creation of floating indebtedness, by the railroad companies; to prescribe the manner in which the same may be authorized and issued beyond certain limits by authority of the stockholders under the approval of the state railroad commission and to fix the lia-bility of directors for unauthorized issues

The bill of which so much has already been said in the public prints that the peo-ple of the state are thoroughly familiar with its provisions, was reported by substitute from the committee on railronds. It seeks to prevent the wrecking of railroad compa nies in the state of Georgia by having a check rein placed in the bit of the bridle of the millionaire trusts and syndicate that may proceed systematically to snatch the control of railroad property from the hands of the minority stockholders in order to assume the spoils after the wreck of the company has been achieved.

When the bill and the substitute had been read Major Bacon gained the floor and made a clear statement concerning the pro-visions of the bill and showed wny, in his opinion, it should become a law. He was on the floor but a short time when several amendments to the original measure began amendments to the original measure began to shower upon him.

For the most part they were to modify the provisions of the bill so as to strip it of many radical features. For instance, one of the amendments changed the bill in a way to allow a railroad company to be organized when 15 per cent of the capital stock had been paid into the treasury of the company seeking organization. In the original bill Major Bacon had put the limit at 25 per cent and the committee had reduced that limit to 20 per cent and now, when it came up for passage, Tatum, of Dade, amended the act so as to further reduce it to 15 per cent.

Dade, amended the act so as to further reduce it to 15 per cent.

The reason Mr. Tatum gave for thus reducing the limit was from the fear that to fix it at such a high rate would be an obstructions to railroad building in the state.

Major Bacon accepted the amendment. It was further amended so as to allow this stock that must be paid in before organization to be either in full shares or that a number of shares may be represented in it by having the amount cover each one in part. This amendment was likewise also adopted.

part. This amendment was likewise also adopted.

Mr. Bacon made another speech on the measure when all the amendments were in and the bill was ready to go to the house on passage. He said the object of the bill was for the protection of the minority stockholders of the railroad companies. He was of the opinion that with some such law the men in the state who owned railroad stock could lie down at night in safety, feeling that when they awoke next morning their stock would still be of value, and if the bill did bring about this safety it would do all that he hoped to accomplish.

The measure passed by a big vote of 124, with not a single adverse vote.

Put a nem in the Chaingang.

The next was the bill by Major Bacon

The next was the bill by Major Bacon to have the wreckers of the railroad companies in this state punished just as are the bank burglars. Major Bacon stated to the house that what he wanted to do with this bill was to place the man who after accepting the position of trustee or director of the railroad company deliberately went forward to destroy its value and have it placed in the hands of a receiver in the same position of that of another robber who with a crow bar breaks into a house and steals a man's goods and chattels. The bill provides that such railroad wreckers shall be sent to the penitentiary for a term of not greater than twenty years, and not less than two years.

On the passage of the bill there were 120

As to Cotton speculation.

Early in the morning session of the house yesterday the resolution from the senate to request the Georgia senators and congressmen to work to secure the passage of the famous Hatch bill came up for action and quite a lively tilt resulted when it was placed on passage.

Mr. Fleming of Richmond, was the first

Mr. Fleming of Richmond, was the first to get the floor and he made a strong speech against the passage of the resolution. He was opposed to it not because he was opposed to the Hatch bill, but claimed that his purpose in antagonizing the measure was because he thought it was something of too much importance to be treated as a small matter and that it could not be thoroughly debated on the floor of the Georgia house of representatives. He declared that he had faith and confidence in the members of congress from Georgia that he believed they would after hearing the full issues at stake vote as will be best for the people of the state.

people of the state.

Mr. Mel Branch, the third party leader of the house, was next to speak and made a strong argument for the adoption of the resolution. He said the farmers of the state strong argument for the adoption of the resolution. He said the farmers of the state wanted just such a measure passed in the national congress. He said a stop should be put to this speculation in futures on cotton so as to govern the farmers' products simply by gambling on it.

Mr. Dennard was also of the opinion that the house ought to so instruct the Georgia congressmen.

the house ought to so instruct the Georgia congressmen.

Mr. Harrison, of Quitman, said it was very probable that not half of the members of the house had read the Hatch bill and he was opposed to the passage of the resolution on the ground that the members of congress had better advantages of studying out the issues involved than the Georgia legislators. Mr. Graham, of Appling, moved to table until a number of copies of the bill could be printed and this motion prevailed after a time.

Smith of Gwinnett—A bill to require that a lien can be taken from a contractor by laborers and material men and mechanics alike Sundays Not Counted.

Judge Hail, of Spalding, puts a fill before the house to deduct Sundays from the regular session of the legislature. The bill provides that no legislator shall be allowed pay for the Sundays during the session of the legislature and that these days of rest shall nobe counted from the fifty allowed by the constitutional amendment. The purpose of the bill is to bridge over the day that has been lost to the assembly by reason of the fact that the last day of the term of fifty days, at it now stands, will be Sunday, and thus the members will be denied one day right at the close when the minutes are as valuable at days in the early part of the secsion.

Some time ago Hon. W. H. Fleming, of Richmond, undertook to say that the best thing for the present legislature to do was to go beyond the custom and pass a bill making all matter that may be pending at the time of adjournment hold over as unfinished business until the next session is convened thus saving a great deal of time and labor. Yesterday the question came before the house for action.

It was in the bill by Mr. Worsham, providing for just this step to be taken. There had been some opposition to the measure on the ground of doubt as to its constitutionality. But his doubt seemed to have subsided yester day, for the bill passed and all matter introduced in this house will be acted on soone or later.

The following bills passed the house yester day:

In the Senate.

The bill requiring insurance companies to fix the value of all property to be insured before issuing policies thereon, and, in the event of loss, holding them liable for the full amount of insurance written in these policies, rvceived the unanimous vote of the senate. Should the house pass this bill a very important change will be wrought in the insurance law of the state.

The Gober Investigation.

The Gober Investigation.

People who went to the capitol last night to witness the proceedings of the Gober investigating committee expected, perhaps, a serious melodrama, but they beheld only a farce They looked for a circus, and were gratified with a mere side show. The committee, which was expected to furnish the amusement, was not on hand. The performance was "positively postponed." This was not relished by the would-be spectators.

In lieu of the regular exhibition which everybody looked for, an amateur show was organized. Its object was entertainment merely, and Senator Humphreys, of the seventh district, therefore, did not heaitate to act as chairman.

The speakers addressed their remarks to him, and there were a number of speakers, more or less, in earnest. Some went to the point of pronouncing the extempore sitting an indignation meeting, because the committee had not appeared to hear the argument, while others were more conservative in their viws, treating the whole business as a joke. Some very humorous addresses were listened to.

The committee, much more seriously inclined, had no notice whatever of holding a meeting.

Just after dinner, they addressed to the counsel on both sides of the case the following letter:

Gentlemen—The joint committee of the senate and house appointed to investigate the charges against Judge Gober have determined not to hear oral argument from counsel, either for the memorialists or for Judge Gober.

Instead of the oral argument, the committee request that counsel will file with the committee written or printed arguments presenting their views as to the law and the facts.

The committee will hold no meeting tonight The evidence of the absent witness, Mr Morse, will be taken on Thursday next if he is present, and counsel will be notified of the hour.

Counsel are requested to file their written arguments by Friday noon next if practicable.

The committee believe that the written arguments than contact to them.

The committee believe that the written arguments will be more useful to them than oral arguments in arriving at just conclusions on the issues involved. And, in addition thereto, the ill health of one member of the committee will not permit him to be present to hear oral argument tonight.

By order of the committee, (Signed.)

Edgewood Avenue Theater, Friday and Saturday, December 2nd and 3rd.

The Wilmington Daily Republican says:
"A good-sized audience witnessed the production of W. J. Fleming's dramatization of Jules Verne's famous novel 'Around the World in Eighty Days' at the Academy of Music last evening. The piece is too well known to require any extended comment. It met with big favor, and will have a successful stay here. The company is, beyond doubt, the best ever seen in its production, every member of the large cast being well up in his or her respective business. Mr. Fleming himself is seen as the American, in which character he is most successful. John Haesting enacted the character of Phineas Forg in any admirable mannier.
"To sum up the double attraction, 'Around the World in Eighty Days,' with Kiralty's beliets, makes one of the best attractions seen here for some time. The house should be crowded tonight."

THE COTTON CROP. Savannah Factors Give Their Views on th

Savannah, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)
The condition of the cotton crop and speculations as to the season's supply, together with various opinions on the future price of the staple, is agitating the entire south at present. The recent advance in prices has caused considerable excitement and the general benefit to the entire cotton belt has been felt.

general benefit to the entire cotton bet has been felt.

There is a diversity of opinion as to the future results, however, and The Morning News has interviewed several of the promi-nent merchant traders and factors of Safuture results, however, and The Morning News has interviewed several of the prominent merchant traders and factors of Savannah on the subject.

The general impressions and opinions of the leading factors is that the crop will be about two-thirds of that of last season, and they estimate on the basis that up to the week ending Saturday, November 26th, last year, the receipts were 4,500,000 bales, while this season's receipts were only 3,194,000 bales; that at this time last year one-half of the entire crop, which was 9,000,000 bales, was marketed, and if that is the case this year, the entire crop will be only 6,388,000 bales. It also confirmed that merchants, traders and speculators rushed into the country and bought cotton at advanced prices and through speculation sold it for higher prices. Hence the present rise in the price and the benefits received by farmers and dealers alike. Many think that the prices will continue to advance, and one factor stated that he expected cotton to bring 12 cents by June 1, 1893.

A factor, who has received concise reports from Mississippi, Louisinana and Alabama stated as his opinion that the crop was at least 25 per cent short of that of last year, and that in a great many places the farmers had sent the last of their crop to market. He said that the gains in several sections had closed down for the season, but still there was some cotton coming from those localities.

Another large exporter and factor stated that the did not take much stock in the statement that the crop would be as low as 6,000,000, as many put it, but that there would be at least 6,750,000 bales this season. He said that speculation had made the stir in the market, and that he would not be surprised to see the price fall and fluctuate materially during the next few months.

There is one fact, however, that is of interest to the farmers as well as all dealers in the staple, and that is that the world needs at least 8,000,000 bales of cotton from this country this season has only produced 6,000,000 bales t

It is stated that the farmers planted all the cotton that they could this season. They couldn't get advances to plant any more. They were held back by those who usually advance money for the crop, and it is a general opinion, too, among the leading factors that the farmers rushed their cotton to market this season, notwith-standing the fact that the general estimates were low, thinking that the story of a short-crop was an old story which they had heeded to their sorrow for four or five sea-sons.

Rome, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—The body of Sheriff McGinnis was carried from Rome to Calhoun this morning and this aftermoon laid to rest in the Fain cemetery. There were various rumors about Will Morrow, but nothing definite. Many of the officers believe he has escaped from the state. Gordon county and the upper portion of Floyd is filling up with detectives and secret service men of all sorts, and if he is in this section he will soon be caught.

Another Store Robbed.

Last night Penson's store in the Morrow community was broken open and the cash drawer, of the store and the drawer of the store and the drawer of the postoffice in the same building opened and their contents stolen. The postoffice drawer contained $20 and the store drawer $5. The belief is that it was done by Will Morrow to secure money with which to make his escape to Texas. He is a low, small man, with dark eyes and a slight mustache, and talks very rapidly and is about twenty-eight years of age. He has some relations living in Texas and may have gone there.

The United States postal authorities offer for his arrest $1,000 reward and the Southern Express Company the same amount, and there is $500 from other sources, making $2,500 as the price of his capture.

A PROBLEM.

Companion Piece to the Lady or the Tiger

The beautiful girl was engaged to the wealthy bachelor, but was in love with a poor young man. The young man urged the beautiful girl to elope with him. Alas, "too late," she said, "the wedding day is fixed.

The wealthy bachelor took out a marriage license, as a matter of precaution, and, showing it to the beautiful girl, cried: "I have you now."

The beautiful girl listened to the pleadings of the poor young man, wept bountfully, "Would that I could," she said, "but he already has the license." The poor young man hurried to the club, and stole the marriage license from the wealthy bachelor's overcost nocket.

"You are mine," he cried, as he clasped the beautiful girl to his heart. "I have his license." "Oh, dear! This is so unexpected." she says, and together they fly to the marriage altar.

"Mr. Man," said the poor young man a few hours after, "allow me to introduce my wife." "Oh, no," says the wealthy bachelor, "she Is to be my wife; I have the license." I think not," returned the young man, "while you were at the club I stole that license, and we were married under it just now. All's fair in love —"
"Then, she is mine now," interrupted the bachelor.
"But I married her," protested the young man.

"But I married her," protested the young man.

"But the records show that I did," asserted the bachelor. "You had to use my name on the license; you can't go behind the returns. Come to your husband, dearest."

The beautiful girl looked from one to the other, and, as the problem dawned upon her, she shrieked, and fainted away.

Whose wife was she? As she couldn't answer, neither will I; I leave the problem with you.

of Said County: ding, W. T. Spain spectfully shows

Chairman Waterhouse, of the engineers' committee, and the other members of that committee who have been in the city since Monday are annoyed to say the least at the reception they have received. The contract they and the firemen desire signed has been standing with but few changes for fifteen years and they can see no cause for delay ewing it.

in renewing 15.

C. O. Stanback, of Atlanta, has been in the city since Monday with the telegraphers.

Mr. Stanback has been appointed assistant chief of the Order of Railway Telegraphers by Chief Ramsey and is now acting in that a note yesterday saying he must have an interview today by 12 o'clock. Up to 2 this afternoon no answer had been received.

If Mr. Wadley does not return to the city by tomorrow noon a strike may be ordered by Chief Ramsey. This would seriously affect the Central railroad as all of their trains are run by dispatchers' orders and all except eight of the three hundred telegraphers employed by the road are union men.

Cypher telegrams are passing daily between the chief and the assistants. The men in the employ of the road are indignant at what they consider the contemptuous manner in which Superintendent Wadley has treated them. It is doubtful now if their representatives will have any further dealings at all with him. They are apparently not inclined to submit to such "smiles" and the men whom they represent are decidedly sore over Wadley's ignoring of their com-mittees. In the past the general managers of the railroad have received their committees courteously and properly.

Cypher dispatches have been sent, it is said to the chief of the firemen's order and to Chief Arthur acquainting them with Wad-to Chief Arthur acquainting them with Wad-ley's action. Telegraphic correspondence will also probably be opened up with Mr. Comer. The four associations of railroad em-ployes will now probably stand and work together, Superinteudent Wadley having ignored all of them, they find themselves occupying a common ground. The members of the several committees have mingled to-gether and talked over the lituation and it is apparent that they are inclined to be is apparent that they are inclined to be united in a demand for courteous recognition at the hands of the railroad officials. This outcome will materially assist the tele-graphers in their efforts to make a contract as an organization, which the railroad has heretofore refused. There is an impression here that Superintendent Wadley left the city because he was not in a position to deal decisively with the employes in the absence

On Monday all the committees saw Superintendent Wadley and the interviews were short and to the point. The men stated their business and in a calm and gentlemanly way asked that they be recognized and dealt with as labor organizations. Superintedent Wadley, the committee claim, treated them with uncalled for rudeness and gave them to understand they had nothing to expect as organizations at his hands. He even refused to continue the contracts with the firemen and engineers—contracts that have stood in all the changes of the Central for the past fifteen years.

Superintendent Wadley told the committee that he investigated the matter and that he would not recognize them. He said he had the United States court at his back and defied the committee to do their worst.

Finding that the superintendent would not Finding that the superintendent would not listen to them the committee withdrew, thinking to call on the superintendent again the next day, but early on Tuesday morning Superintendent Wadley left the city in his private car, and is now somewhere on the Central's main stem.

To say that the men are indignant at the discourteous manner in which they claim to have been treated is to put the matter mildly. They think they have been handled in an outrageous manner and are to demand recognition at any cost.

Cipher messages have been passing between the different committees and the chiefs of the orders for the past two days, and the chiefs of three of the orders, those of the engineers, firemen and telegraphers, are now on their way to Savannah. Public sympathy here is largely with the men, and much adverse comment is indulged in at the manner in which the committees were Precived.

When Mr. Wadley returns to the city he will find the committee still waiting for him, and they state he will then be given a chance to make good his defiance. Unless he goes back on what he has said the entire system of the Central railway may be tied up and cripple for a time at least. Everybody is now anxious to hear Superintendent Wadley's side of it.

Cotton Seed Oil Tank Bursted. Elberton, Ga., November 30.—(Special.) One of the large tanks at the cotton seed oil mill here, containing forty or fifty thousand zallons of oil, bursted yesterday and several thousand gallons of oil wasted. Great lakes of it are damned up around the mills, and the hands are saving a quantity of it. The loss, however, will be heavy.

THE MACON AND ATLANTIC AGAIN A FRIENDLY BILL FILED BY CREDITORS

Put Up At Auction—A New Company to Be Organized at Once—A Mid-night Fire, Etc., Etc.

Macon, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)— The Macon and Atlantic railroad has been sold and the Macon and Atlantic railroad

Perhaps not under the name of the Ma-con and Atlantic and perhaps not to any point on the Atlantic coast but Savannah, though the former coast terminus of the road was at Colleton.

The sale of the road this morning was an interesting event in railroad circles in Macon and may mean a great deal to this city and in fact to the whole state.

The Macon and Atlantic has been bought in by the creditors of the road and the bondholders.

And Mr. J. R. Young, of Savannah, is the man who did the bidding and to whom the property was knocked down for a total purchase amounting to $410,000.

The property of the Macon and Savannah Construction Company, consisting of rails, bolts, nuts, spikes and crossties, was first bid in and was all bought in by Captain J. R. Young with the exception of a handear which was purchased by Jake Hersch for $12.50.

Then the Macon and Atlantic railroad, with its roadbed, grading and property, was put up and bought in by Captain J. R. Young for the sum of $125,000.

The whole property was then put up, steel rails, nuts, bolts, flatcars, boxcars and roadbed were sold and just because Mr. Jake Hersch did not bid up and protect his rights in that flatcar. Mr. J. R. Young bought the whole thing in for $410,000.

The $10,000 cash was paid in at once and the manner in which the balance will be paid may be found in the following history of the transaction.

This is the second time the Macon and Atlantic railroad has been sold at public auction. The first time, sometime last spring, the upset price was placed at $500,000, but the property did not bring this sum and the court did not approve the amount that was bid.

Since that time the creditors and the was bid.

Since that time the creditors and the bondholders have been juggling. The result was that a few weeks ago light broke through the clouds and an agreement was reached by which the creditors adjusted their claims between each ther and then they and the bondholders went in and have formed a new company.

Only one obstacle remained in the way and that was removed before the sale this morning.

Under the order of the court the sum of $10,000 cash was to be deposited with the bid and on approval of the sale a further sum of $80,000 was to be paid on the bal-sum of $80,000 was to be paid on the balance on time.

But the creditors and bondholders did not want to pay in any more cash than they could possibly help, so an application was presented to the court for a modification of this order and the application was granted. Therefore the purchasers will not pay that $80,000.

The agreement between the creditors and the bondholders is that each takes stock pro rata according to the amount of his claim against the road and that the road will be built from Macon to Savannah.

The new company will be organized very shortly and the road will most undoubtedly be built.

Fire broke out last night in the building occupied by Mr. A. W. Turner and the Macon Light Infantry. The infantry lost a large quantity of equipments and Card's band lost instruments amounting in value to $500.

The building belonged to Mr. Ben L. Jones and was fully covered by insurance.

The greatest damage to Mr. Turner's stock was done by water. Mr. Turner was insured, carrying a policy of $20,000. His loss will not be more than $500.

While the firemen were still working on the Turner fire an alarm was turned in from box 23. When they arrived the fire was burning rapidly in the cellar of a store on Poplar street and things looked dangerous. They got to work, however, and in a short time had extinguished it, and before more than $2,000 damage was done to the building and $1,000 to the stock. The building belonged to F. M. Gunn, of Houston county, and was fully covered by insurance.

The Macon Light Infantry had insurance for $1,000, but this will not cover their loss.

As to Cotton Rates.

A bill is now pending before the legislature which will affect the discrimination in cotton rates on the part of the Central railroad against Macon and other points in favor of Savannah.

This is the outcome of a decision lately rendered by Judge Speer in which he holds that the Central has the right to prevent the shipment of cotton to Macon factors or a Macon compress by making a discrimination of 13 cents in favor of Savannah factors and the Central's own compress.

It has already been announced, and is undoubtedly true that the cotton business in Macon will be very seriously injured if not entirely killed if this discrimination continues, and the legislature no doubt will look closely into the cause for complaint.

Willie Bell's Funeral.

The funeral of Willie Bell, whose execution occurred yesterday, was preached this morning at 11 o'clock at Unionville. An immense concourse of colored people were present, amounting probably to about 2,000. The dead boy is looked upon by the negroes as a sort of martyr, and feeling continues to run high.

Locat and Personal.

George W. Pettis, of Toombsboro, Wilkinson country, was tried before Commissioner Erwin this morning on the charge of removing brandy from a registered distillery before it was guaged by the United States officer, and was placed under a five-hundred dollar bond to await trial in the federal court.

The Robert Enumet Club gave one of its most delightful entertalments this evening, and a very learse number of guests enjoyed a very pleasant masquerade ball under the auspices of this most successful and popular institution.

Colonel Charles Harris is seriously ill at his home on Tatnall square. Hopes for his recovery are, however, entertained by the attending physicians.

Mr. Greyson, formerly night clerk at the Hotel Lanler, has been confined to his room for some time, after a serious illness, Mr. (stresson is one of the most efficient hotel clerks that has ever visited Macon.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Joe Wells entertained a number

The Committees of Central Employes | And That Means That the Road Will Be | For the Savannah, Americus and Mont-

And President Hawkins Named as Tem-porary Receiver-The Causes That Led to the Step Being Taken.

Americus, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)
Upon the petition of J. W. Sheffield & Co., W. B. Alexander & Co., and sundry other creditors, Judge W. H. Fish, of the Southwestern circuit, late this afternoon signed a bill placing the Savanmu, Americus and Montgomery Railrond Company in the hands of a receiver, and appointed Colonel S. H. Hawkins, president of the road as temporary receiver. A hearing will be had on December 10th to pass upon the question of a permanent receiver.

It has been known for some time that the heavy outlay for the construction on the heavy outlay for the construction on the Montgomery end of the line had so cramped the finances of the road that the payment of the January interest of about $100,000 was doubtful in view of the current liabilities that recided to be rest at once and as ties that needed to be met at once, and as it was not practicable to meet both immediately, the friends of the road to whom it was indebted brought the creditor's bill which was granted today.

Colonel Hawkins will operate the road as usual under instructions of the court, and to for me the general public is concerned.

so far as the general public is con everything will go on as usual. The effect has been already discounted in financial circles here, and no special trouble is anticipated from this movement. The local debts are comparatively small and will probably be provided for by the receiver at an early date.

It is stated that certain negotiations now pending north which will not be interfered with by the receivership, will provide for the January interest and leave the revenues the January interest and leave the revenues of the road free to meet its floating debt, local and foreign. Should this be done, the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery may be taken out of the receiver's hands early in the new year. This action is regarded as a means of temporary relief to the road rather than precipitating its incorrency.

Linder the receivership the energies of

Under the receivership the energies both Receiver Hawkins and General Man-ager Gabbett will be devoted not only to perfecting the physical condition of the road but developing its business and largely in-creasing its earning capacity and revenues. By many this is regarded as the best thing for both the road and the commercial in-terests of Americus and southwestern Georgia, as the heavy drain of money going north to meet the interest charges, will be suspended until the road can rally from its cramped condition.

Corrects the Statement.

Corrects the Statement.

Washington, Ga., November 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. S. T. Gatchell, concerning whom it has been reported that she threw vitriol on her little daughter, in throwing it at a negro girl, indignantly denies the statement. She says that she idolizes her little girl, and has cared for her for five years, acere leaving her for a single day. She is very indignant about the report, which has been generally published, and is extravagant in her expressions of devotion for the child. It seems, from her statement, that a negro girl, whe was with Mrs. Gatchell at the time, accidentally spilled the vitriol, and this is the way the story originated. Mrs. Gatchell is distressed about the matter, and asks that the statement be corrected, as it does her a great injustice.

The following statement explains itself: Editor Constitution: The statement appearing in a late issue of your paper, purporting to come from Washington, Ga., to the effect that Mrs. Susie T. Gatchell had thrown vitriol upon a negro girl, and that her own child was injured by it, is absolutely and unqualifiedly false. As you published the other report, please do me, the father of Mrs. Gatchell, the justice to publish this. Other papers that copied the original article are requested to publish this.

Only 193 Years Old, Stolen by a Musical Thief Who Sold the Valuable Instrument for $5. who sold the valuable Instrument for $5. A violin one hundred and nluety-three years old, and a valued heirloom, fell into the hands of a thief night before ast, and all yesterday morning hair the city detective force we looking for the treasured musical instrument. Detectives Etheniage, theen and Bone finally recovered it and returned it to its overjoyed owner.

Preceives it and returned it to its overloyed owner.

This remarkable violin is the property of Professor A. A. Welsenfeld, the music teacher and organist at the Christian church. It is a treasured heirloom in his family, having belonged to members of it for the not inconsiderable space of one hundred and ninety-three years. It is a tuneful instrument, too, and Professor Weisenfeld has coaxed many a merry tune from its ancient strings. The violin was stolen from the opera house night before last. It had been loaned to the violin player of the orchestra, and a musical thief got hald of it. Professor Weisenfeld was sorely distressed at the thought of losing his highly valued instrument, and when the detectives, after a tedious search, recovered it yesterday morning he was overloyed.

The detectives found it in the possession of a young white man who said he had bought it from another man. He gave a description of the man who sold it to him to the detectives, and a man answering the description was arrested. He was not identified as the man who had sold the violin and he was allowed to go.

A Needed Reform.

The grand jury of Richmond county recommends that the legislature be pe titioned to change the law so that state, county and congressional elections shall be held the same day.

Some such reform as that which the grand jury of Richmond proposes is sadly needed. We speak emphatically and particularly for Fulton. By the close of the year we shall have been dragged through a procession of primaries and elections stretching from May to the 1st of January, and by that time, the most enthusiastic voter, after a period of running around to see whether he is registered, and standing up to the rack in an inexhaustible series of primary and regular elections, will be in a condition so bedraggled that neither Christmas nor New Years will have any charms for him

First there was a primary to select delegates to the gubernatorial convention. Then there was a primary to nominate members of the legislature. Then a primary to nominate a candidate for congress. Then came the state election. Following hard on its heels, came the presidential election. Then the mayor's primary, and now comes the county primary, and afterwards comes the city and county elections. The amount of time, labor and mental and muscular energy that is wasted in this way is simply incalculable. The demand made on the average citizen by this long array of elections is unreasonable, and there ought to be a reform.

We desire, therefore, to endorse the suggestion of the grand jury of Richmond. The legislature is now in session, and it can very readily adopt a general act, grouping the state, county and congressional elections together, and thus enable the voters to discharge their obligations to he state and to themselves at one and the same time. The situation has been complicated with primaries, so that the citizen who is faithful to his duties is compelled to vote at two elections to secure the results of one. The same law that groups and consolidates the elections will in effect dispose of the primaries in the same way. It is not necessary at this time to make any argument in favor of a reform. The situation is its own argument. The elections have followed each other so rapidly during the past three months that the average citizen is in a state of confusion. He doesn't know whether he is registered or not, or whether the registration for one election holds good for another. Under all the circumstances, it is no wonder that the more energetic and industrious voters are beginning to have "that tired feeling." The legislature can give the people relief by grouping the state, county and congressional elections.

The Herald's Queer Showing . The New York Herald, which is cutely trying to make a news sensation out of the question of an extra session, has been communicating with members of congress in order to find out how they stand. Our contemporary has apparently gone to a good deal of trouble in the matter, but the showing it makes ought to be far from satisfying it that the opinion of democratic representatives is opposed to an extra session.

The Herald prints a table of states in which it recapitulates the epinions of nearly 200 congressmen without regard to party. In this table, 79 favor an extra session, and 81 oppose it; 81 favor the repeal of the McKinley law, 46 are in favor of modifying and 60 are opposed to any change.

Now, it must be apparent that the 60 who want the tariff to remain as it is have no right to be counted in any census of congressional opinion. Subtracting the 60 high tariff republicans from the 81 congressmen, we have left 21 representatives who oppose an extra session, as against 79 who favor it, and this is really the extent of the division in the party on the question. But The Herald quotes only congressmen from Georgia out of 11, and of these 5 are in favor of an extra session and 2 are non-committal.

Thus The Herald, by its own showing demonstrates that there is a strong and growing sentiment in the democratic party and outside of it, in favor of an extra session; and in its editorial allusion to the matter, it makes the case even strong-the matter, it makes the case even strong-er. It says:

It is a question of economics rather than of politics: a question which is of far more importance to the people than the triumpl of a party. Merchants, traders and artisans are anxious to know what changes are likely to be made and whether if will be the pelicy of the incoming administration to make then abruptly or to slide from the abnormal methods of the present to the sounder and healther methods of the future without a sudden cataclysm.

has centra is which extend far into the he has contrains which extend that into the future. The manufacturer wants to know this because he is constantly purchasing raw material abroad, and the wage earner wants to know this because a radical change said denly interplected will affect the stabulity of his work and his income.

That is the whole case in a nutshell.

Merchants, traders, artisans, importers and manufacturers are anxious to know what changes are to be made. They want to know how their interests are to be affected, and they know that they are not likely to get this information if the democratic leaders insist on the policy of delay.

In other words, the people of this country have declared in favor of tariff reform: they have chosen the democratic party to carry out that reform; and the business interests of the country have the right to demand not only a wise and prudent but a prompt adjustment of the issue. Why should The Herald or any other sensible organ of public opinion insist that a prompt consideration of the business of tariff reform means radical changes or hasty legislation? We have been trying in vain to get an answer to this inquiry. Why do the brethren run away from it?

Is it not true that an extra session means more time for the consideration of the delicate questions involved in a readjustment of the tariff? Why will legislation-or the preparations for legislation at an extra session mean "a sudden cataclysm," and the same preparations a year hence mean something else?

No one is able to tell us, for the reason that the argument involves an absurdity The common sense of the country is in favor of an extra session in order that the question may not be hanging fire for two years longer.

Let Speculation Alone. It may be that the present crop of cotton will not go beyond 6,000,000 bales. Possibly it will fall a trifle below that estimate, and its price may be still further advanced.

The danger is that the situation will invite speculation. In past years the people of the south have lost millions of dollars in futures. They now see a chance to get their money back, and they are yielding to the temptation.

But it should be recollected that certain speculators are interested in forcing prices down, and they may be successful. No man is shrewd enough to forecast the result. It will be argued that they should be opposed by other speculators trying to force prices up. There will be plenty of men in New York to look after that part of the business. The safe course for our people is to let futures alone. We have found that out in the past.

A southern expert discussing the sub ject also gives this piece of advice: One word more of warning; do not settle our acreage for next year your acreage for near year present prices. An increase even in acreage will strengthen the bears and lower the price of cotton. Cut down for '03 the acreage the price of cotton. '92, and put the land in vegetables, in it, in sheep, or in corn. The cotton crop of '92 cost the producer less than the cotton crop of any recent year. By diversifying your products and reducing still further your acreage, the cotton crop of '93 should cost less than that of '92. There is more hope f relief in this direction than in any govern tion of acreage next year will be to our advantage, and diversified agriculture will make us independent. It is no time for the south to plunge into the folly of speculation or into the other folly of increasing our cotton output.

Home Mission Work.

In a recent address, delivered in New York, Miss Morrison made an earnest plea for home mission work among the mountain whites of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

According to Miss Morrison. mountain whites live in abject poverty, illiteracy and gross immorality and lawlessness. Yet she thinks that as they are of Scotch-Irish descent and are naturally bright they are capable of being educated and reformed. She therefore urges the Presbyterian home board of missions to devote its active work to this region. We believe that this lady paints too black a picture. She will find among the hills of New England, in the mountains of Pennsylvania and on the plains of the west conditions of degradation, poverty and ignorance that should attract her attention. She will find in the slums of the northern and western cities a depth of misery and vice that should invite her missionary work. Why ignore these well-known facts and single out the mountaineers of the south? Undoubtedly, life is hard among our mountains, but a mild climate and simple habits make existence more endurable than in the poor quarters of the northern cities. Then, our mountain whites by energy and economy are steadily progress ing, but there is no progress in slum life. There are large colonies of slum dwellers who never hear the gospel, who can neither read nor write, who live by theft or begging, who disregard marriage laws, and who look forward only to the poorhouse or the prison. Miss Morrison has only to read the daily papers to ascertain these facts. Again we ask why she passes over her own sec tion and singles out the south for missionary work?

The truth is there are some people the north who are so eager to slander the south that when they can do it in no other way they do it under the cloak of religion or in the guise of philanthropy. We can take care of our mountain whites, but who will take care of the wretches in the slums of the north?

The Alliance In Georgia. In another column will be found an in-teresting interview with the Hon. C. H. Ellington, president of the Georgia Farmers' Alliance.

Senator Ellington admits that his organzation is virtually a wreck in some sections of the state, but in others he thinks that it is in fairly good condition. It is his purpose next year to make an effort to rebuild the alliance. He hopes that all genuine alliancemen will return to the order, and work for its good, making no war upon any class, but endeavoring to secure a fair distribution of the products of their toll. He makes a stro a farmers' organization, and calls at-tion to the fact that other classes and interests are all strongly organized.

In publishing President Ellington's interview it is in order to ask him the of the alliance in Georgia. Three ye ago it was in spiendid shape. Its educa-tional work was highly useful. It fought the bagging trust and whipped it. In many ways it aided the farmers by bring-ing them to a better understanding of their grievances, and the result was harmony and united action. So far, so good But in an evil hour certain leading members of the order switched it off on a political line, and the third party experiment sidetracked it and left it under the necessity of reorganizing.

We believe that Senater Ellington sees more of the situation than he sets forth in his interview, and it would be strange indeed if all the alliance leaders did not thoroughly realize the serious nature of the mistake that was made when the society allowed itself to break on third party politics. If the farmers of Georgia propose to get together again, and place the alliance on its original platform, let it avoid the rock of partisan politics. Let its educational work be continued, and let the members direct their efforts to the unlifting of the agricultural interest through scientific diversified farming, and various economic reforms within their reach so long as they stand together.

But all alliancemen, whether leaders of followers, if they are willing to profit by the disastrous lessons of the past, should make up their minds now and henceforth not to be persuaded to attempt independent political action as a third party or in coalition with the republicans. Throughout the south, from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, the great body of the people are determined to maintain white supremacy, and they know that the only way to do it is to keep the south solid and under the democratic banner. The truth is, we are all democrats in this region, and there is not even a fighting chance for any other party. The farmers have always been identified with the democracy, and they owe every blessing they now enjoy to the work of that party since the war. They will find when they place the alliance on its proper basis that the democrats are the true neople's party and will do more to aid them in their legitimate reforms than any other party could or would do.

Good can come out of the reorganization of the alliance as it was. Its recent mistakes will doubtless be avoided in future, in which event the society can accomplish a great and much-needed work.

From the Veterans of Virginia.

We take great pleasure in publishing the letter addressed by the soldiers in the home in Virginia to their Georgia comrades. They fought shoulder to shoulder on a hundred bloody battlefields and their greeting is most timely. If the pride of a Virginian is not burt by the acceptance of a shelter from his state, which he has carned by his services in battle, why should a Georgian hesitate? In Ireland and France when any citizen passes an old soldiers' home he takes off his hat. This indication of reverence for valor in distress belongs to every man and woman of generous impulse.

The address is signed by sixty-two members-all who were in the home at the time it was circulated. The great majority of the signatures are indicative of men of education.

We specially commend the address to the attention of our legislators, who doubt whether a soldier's pride should allow him to accept the hospitality provided by his state.

A Colonial Relic.

Mr. A. I. Branham, writing from Brunswick, calls attention to the fact that a cannon brought over by Oglethorpe, the founder of the colony of Georgia, is lying at old Fredericka, exposed to wind and rain, and the suggestion is made that this historic piece of ordnance ought to be rescued from its present surroundings, and be made to do duty in the capitol as cherished relie of the early days of the commonwealth.

The suggestion is a good one, and we heartily endorse it. In all lands the people cherish and preserve the relics of the past, and Georgia should place this old colonial cannon in the vestibule of its state capitol, where it would be an interesting object to young and old. The Constitution would undertake to rescue this historic relic, but the truth is, we now have a little red cannon that is hard to hold on the earth when a democratic president is elected. It is small. but it is very busy, and it is as much as we can do to look after it. But the older and bigger cannon should be allowed to find shelter in the capitol. Th public sentiment in favor of an extra session is growing and will continue to grow until Mr. Cleveland calls it next spring or in the early fall. The free trade papers that are abusing Speaker Crisp about the tariff will be as badly disappointed in the work of the new democratic congress. This, however, illus-trates the old Hindu stoka—"there is no heaven for cranks.' Editor Halstead has retfred in good or er, but Editor Johnny Cockerill is still

Dr. Warren Candler's Unwarranted Critleism of Our Old College.

AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW ON IT.

Some Lively Discussions of Higher Edu-cation and Its Possible Advace-ment in Georgia.

There is considerable talk among the legislators concerning the position of President W. A. Candler, of Emory college, has taken in the public prints concerning the bill by Judge Hall, of Spalding, to establish an agricultural school.

The following letter from Dr. Candler will be read with concern as it puts the doctor in the attitude of opposing the furthering of higher education for farmers' sons as proposed by Judge Hall and likewise also puts him in the roll of critic of the State university:

Biditor Constitution: In your issue of November 23d, I see an account of a bill recently introduced in the house of representatives by my friend, Judge John I. Hall. As one of the persons named as ex-officio trustees, I may, without impropriety, say I am opposed to taking $12,000 from the common school fund and putting it in any college whatseever, and this is what the bill proposes to do.

The children of school age in the state number at least six hundred thousand. Our school fund amounts to $1.166,700,20, or about one dollar and ninety-five cents a piece. The income of the State university for the past year was $41,914, and 'the students at Athens and Dahlonega, where all but $4,414.14 of this amount was spent, numbered less than three hundred and fitty, counting even the law class at Athens, which pald its own way, and was not chargeable to the state. From these figures it appears that Georgia gave $170 apiece to college students last year, and less than two dollars apiece to the needy children of the common schools or, if we compare by the total envollment of the common schools and $107 each for college students.

In view of such a showing, I for one, cannot consent for $12,000 to be taken away

In view of such a showing, I for one, can-not consent for $12,060 to be taken away from our poor children, who ask but the common educational necessaries to give it to college students to secure educational luxuries.

common educational necessaries to give it to college students to secure educational luxuries.

No wonder we are criticised abroad in such words as those of George W. Cable in The Cosmopolitan. of November. He says of Georgia's educational work: "In 1888.50 her 410 university and "tech" students (he includes the students of the branch colleges) cost the state in actual outlay about $71 each, which her 522,764 children outside of her scren principal cities cost her but 80 cents a head. I do not for a moment accept all Mr. Cable's conclusions; but when I read that sentence I felt ashamed. I knew the fact before he wrote of it; but I hoped the outside world would not find it out until we had had time to change it. But now it is moposed to go further in the same unjust an inwise direction. The legislature will surel' refuse to take any such step. If it is thought necessary to have an agricultural college at the experiment station, put a nart or the whole of the land scrip fund there. It yellded last year $28,000 and is to be invreased $1,600° a year by the United States government for a series of years. In the catalogue of the university for 1891-92 it appears that there were only three students at Athens last ver. looking to the degree of bachelor of agriculture." And yet over $25,000 a year of the land script fund is spent at Athens.

We now spend about $8,000 to $8,000 a year on each of our bachelors of agriculture, and tris proposed to take $12,000 more from the common school children and put in on them. A bachelor of agriculture is a tremendously costly affair to be sure. But the friends of the proposed college may say, "we would have them at Griffin, though they are sure of that carry the innd script frund congress gave them. Let them have it. But in the mame of our common ustice don't try to toll these shy creatures my by butting them af a new place with bread taken for the innd script frund congress gave them. Let them have it. But in the mame of our common ustice don't try to toll these shy creatures my by sken fom the poor children of our common schools.

But it may be said. 'It is only $12,000.' It is only $12,000. but this is more than the state gives for educating all the children in any county of the state, excent the coenties of Bibb. Burke, Chatham. Fulton. Meriwether and Richmond. and there is an average of over three thousand school children to the county in Georgia.

I warn our democratic legislature that the passage of this bill taking $12,000 from the common. schools and giving it to a college, if such a bill can be passed by them is a dangerous measure. The people will resent it and they ought to resent.

Left my friend amend his bill and get the revenue for his proposed cellege— from the land script fund.

As to the State University.

As to the State University.

Speaking of Dr. Chandler's attack on the State university yesterday a friend of the college was heard to say:

"Dr. Candler's opposition to the bill of Judge Hall might have been given without coupling with it an unprovoked and unwarranted abuse of the state agricultural college at Athens. I am surprised to see him display such spirit in the matter. His name has been taken from the list of trustees of the school proposed by Judge Hall, and so has that of Dr. Numaily, of Mercer, it having been thought best by those interested in the bill to have no sectarian factions at difference, perhaps, on the board. The doctor is thus freed from feeling that personal responsibility in the affair and thus far at least should rest contented.

"The doctor calls it an agricultural college. Judge Hall's bill states plainly that he simply seeks to have an agricultural school, and to run it for the benefit of the farmers' sons who may seek to secure cheafly an education in the practical and scientific arts of agricultura.

"Be all that as it may. I am particularly sons who may seek to secure cheafly an education in the practical and scientific arts of agriculture.

"Be all that as it may. I am particularly surprised at Dr. Candler's misrepresentation of the affairs of the state college at Athens. He says the university's income last year was $41,000 and figures that 'Georgia gave $107 to each college student according to attendance at the university'

"The facts in the case are these: Of the amount which Dr. Candler egaggerates less than $37,000 actually available went for the use of the college at Athens. Of this amount $15,000 was interest on the conscript fund and $12,000 was directly donated out of the United States treasury, so it wasn't even interest money paid.

"Of the other $10,000, $8,000 was paid as interest on the debt owed the university and $2,000 was interest on university investments. It therefore appears that instead of the state giving $107 aplece to her college students the state really gave not a cent.

"I wonder if Dr. Candler can call the work he is doing as a college president, university luxury? It strikes me this comes in poor faith and bad grace form a college president. "University luxuries," forsooth. The humblest common school teacher in Georgia wouldn't sneeringly allude to his duties as president of Emory college as 'university luxuries'. Has the doctor given himself away to this business? "The men over at Athens work as a great and zeeful avocation.

"As to the reference of George W. Cable's allusions, I will say that George W. Cable's criticisms are not accepted as gospel in this part of the state. He and Dr.

to find candidates for an agricultureal of gree at the college.

"Dr. Candler fails to state that the report he quotes of the committee of the last legislature was the minority report and not the majority report of the same committee which expressed entire satisfactoin at the work of the college.

"Dr. Candler seems to think that the object of the landscrip colleges is to make bachelors of agriculture. If he will read the acts creating these colleges and outlining their work, he will probably see that they were intended for a vastly different and much more useful purpose. The record of an attendance of monre than 2,000 students in the State college since it was established at Athens, following strictly courses of instruction provided for it was established at Athens, following strictly courses of instruction provided for in the landscrip acts, and of nearly three hundred graduates in the same line is evi-dence that the college has been doing good legitimate work on its own account, as well as providing free tuition in all departments of the State university and relieving the say all this, not in the advocacy of the Hall's bill. The merits of that will be the say of the Hall's bill.

"I say all this, not in the advocacy of Judge Hall's bill. The merits of that will be discussed in the legislature and it will stand on its own merits, but in resentment of the tone and animus of Dr. Candler's article in which, strange as it may appear in a college president, the desire is evident to suggest measures which would dismantle and destroy the state's own college, the University of Georgia.

"I believe that the investigation of the facts show that he 'undscrip fund graned to Georgia by the general government has been wisely administered, has done admirable service in the collegiate education of Georgia's sons, especially those of the farming people. From The Americus, Ga., Times Recorder.

For twenty years the congressman from the fifth district of Georgia has been building up a record for democracy that is equaled by few men in the nation in value to the country; and his service on the postoffice and appropriation committees has given Colonal James H. Blount a familiarity with the important questions of the postal service that fits him in an eminent degree to fill the place of postmaster general. The Times Recorder doubts if there is a man in the party whose qualifications are equal to those of this gas-

No man commands higher respect for the ability, fairness and knowledge of the greatern ment's affairs, even from his political opponents, than does James H. Miss English is atways a graceful and distingue giri, and on this evening she was radiantly fair. She wore one of Barrett's matchless creations in white, the material being a crisp, quaint silk, with a tiny brocade figure. The perfectly plain skirt fell in full pleats from the hips, and the bodice was individual in its make and style. A soft fold of white satia, fastened in the back by a brilliant diamond buckle, encircled the waist, and wide revers, covered with lace, and revealing a V-shaped vest of mousselin- de sole, and the big puffed sleeves were adorned with exquisite lace, falling in points over the thoulder. Last evening at S o'clock conversed one of Seawell, of Nashville, Tenn., to Captain Isaac S. Boyd, of Atlanta.

The wedding will be solemnized at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sue Kennedy Seawell, on Elliston avenue, at 6 o'clock on the afternoon of December 7th.

Miss Seawell is a voung lady of beautiful personality and belongs to one of the finest and most elegant families of middle Tennessee. In addition to a nature and a disposition that are altogether lovable, she comples an intellect of the very highest culture and a quiet, unassuming manner that contributes to her merit the becoming grace of modesty. She will be a valuable accession to Atlanta's social fireside and her coming to the city will be hailed with very great delight.

Cantain Boyd is too well known to the peo-light.

Captain Boyd is too well known to the people of Atlanta to require any mention of his sterling qualities. Success has long ago rewarded his endeavors and he ranks among the wealthiest and most influential citizens of the Gate City. His elegant home on Peachtree street is one of the loveliest mansions in Atlanta and as such it will constitute a beautiful realm for the bride who will there be coronated as the queen of his affections.

a large number of friends is felt in her illness and many prayers have been offered

Miss Edna Boatenreiter, a charming young lady of this city, left yesterday afternoon on a visit of a few days to relatives in Anniston. The rumor of the approaching marriage of Rev. M. A. Matthews, of Calhoun, seems to be premature. At least, the reverend gentleman says so, and the story printed in The Constitution must, therefore, be called back. Miss Maude Craig will entertain the Matrimonial and Literary Club next Tuesday verning. This is one of the foremost and most interesting clubs of the city, and one whose name gives promise of interesting solety events to come.

Jesterday Rev. Mr. Johnson, of 208 Whitehall street, tied the matrimonial ribbon around the lives of Mr. Marion S. Perry and Miss Annie Porter Culberson. Mr. W. F. Strauss and Miss Lena Calloway were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Tuesday at the home of the bride, No. 299 Bass street. Rev. Chalmers Fraser tied the knot which made them man and wife. After the ceremony and congratulations were over the friends of the bride and groom were served with delicious refreshments. It was an enjoyable event and will be long remembered by those who were present.

The reception which ushered Miss English into society yesterday afternoon and evening was a distinctively brilliant and elegant one, where arrangement was the result of refined taste assisted by ample means. The splendid mansion was made dazzlingly bright by many electric lights, shining through exquisite opaque globes of white and gold glass, and soft music-freighted air was rich wiff the odor of many rare flowers.

Entering the wide corridor, the scene was one of magical beauty. The lofty apartments were thrown into one by means of folding doors, and tail palms waived their courteous leaves in the alcoves and deep window seats. Roses were the flowers used, chiefly, and these were placed about the rooms in beautiful bowls and vases of cut glass.

The long drawing room has hanging of pale green, and in soft harmony with these were the trailing vines of mist fern adorning the mirrors and mantels. It was in this room that the fair debutante stood to receive her guests.

About two months ago Maynard left Atlanta and went to Columbus to take charge of some fast horses belonging to Mr. Bill Bussey. Maynard always was a good man with horses, and throughout Georgia his services have always been in demand when he was not on the race track.

Within a few days after Maynard went to Columbus he was a prime favorite with all who loved the horse, and his stories of fast rides on the eastern courses were listened to by those who were about him with great admiration for the jockey who had so often carried his nag under the wire as the throngs cheered his colors.

of his office with promptness, efficiency and fidelity?

And, if stern at times in the discharge of these harsh duties, still he is ever kind and tender to a fault.

But some will say of the other candidates one is a clever man and the other is a good man, and either will make a good sheriff. Grant this, and yet Captain Morrow, their peer and equal in all things, is fairly and justly entitled to the nomination.

He has been in office but one term and has discharged its duties with dispatch and fidelity, and to refuse him a second term would be undemocratic and contrary to all precedent.

We cannot afford to be unjust and unfair to a brave, good man, and the solid, thinking men of this county will not follow after those crying aloud for his defeat.

Let those thirsting and panting for the insignia of office and the money it pays, bide their time, and cease asking us to vote for them, and by so doing to condemn a gallant and true fellow democrat, and violate a custom or rule of party conduct, sacredly observed by our fathers long before he was born.

This rule has borne our flag to a thousand trlumphs, and by construction nominated Cleveland at Chicago and gave the country a denocratic president.

Its abrogation would tear the party into fragments.

Is he honest, is he faithful, is he capable? If so, he is entitled to endorsement and a second term. In deciding this let us not be mote hunters as to Captain Morrow while beams are in the eyes of others!

His administration speaks for itself, and as recorded, will stand 'a monument to his praise when you and I shall have passed over the river to rest in the shade of the trees.

Endorse this administration by giving him a second term.

Anything less is condemnation. Anything less is to strike down a brave, good man without just cause.

Will the democrats of Fulton county do this? No; a thousand times no.

A brave and gailant soldier when our southland needed such men in the field; a good citizen and a faithful officer, Captain Morrow will be endursed, vindicated and given the approval of noble manhood.

Fair uninded men will not desert him and put him under the ban of condemnation.

The fourth member of a quartette of medical students that has been boarding at the Grady house on Decatur street, two of whom have died and given the people in the boarding house a scare, and the city a sensation by turning purple after death, and a third of which quartette is now dangerously ill, gave the story a new turn yesterday.

The four students two of whom were Hollis and Lewis, the men who died so suddenly, were almost inseparable companions. They were together nearly all the time going to and from the college together, assisting each other in their studies, and enjoying the pleasant relations that exist between students of the same college who board at the same place.

As has already been told Hollis died and turned purple, alarming the boarders at the Grady house and puzzling the physicians. This death was followed by that of Lewis within forty-eight hours, he, too, turning to a purple hue immediately after death. The alarm and mystification was increased, parlarm and mystification was increased, particularly as Dalton continued to grow worse and was seemingly suffering from the same complaint that had killed his fellow stu-

Student No. 4 began to feel like a marked man. Some how or other he couldn't get it into his head that his two friends would be taken and himself left. The more he brooded over it the more certain he became that his days were numbered. If he was to die there was one thing he desired, and that his days were numbered. If he was to die there was one thing he desired, and that was to die at home.

An early morning train bore him away from Atlanta yesterday. He was homeward bound. He was going home to die. If he doesn't die soon he will be back at his place in his class

Yesterday the strange death of the two young medical students was the subject of much speculation generally. A new theory was adavanced in explanation of the curious change of color, and sudden death of the two men. It was that they had died from blood poisoning contracted while dissecting. This theory was pretty generally accepted by all but the physicians. A well known physician said when asked about the matter, that if the men had died from blood poisoning their eaths would not have been so sudden, and there would have been no discoloration after death. The theory of blood poisoning was strengthened by the statement that the three men had been engaged together last week in the dissection of a subject. It is not infrequently the case that students, while dissecting, get poisoned from contact between the subject being dissected and a wound on the hand or any part of the person.

Mrs. Malone presided over the meeting.
The following well-known gentlemen were named as directors of the home: Messrs.
C. S. Northen, E. C. Peters, George De-Saussure, Burton Smith, Josiah Carter, Hugh Inman, Josh Tye and A. J. Shropshire. Mr. T. D. Meador was elected treasurer of the building fund.

The patronesses of the institution were named as follows: Mrs. W. A. Hemphill, Mrs. George Traylor, Mrs. Dr. Johnson, Mrs. Charley Hill, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Frank Rice, Mrs. George S. May, Mrs. I. S. Mitchell, Mrs. N. C. Black, Mrs. Stainback Wilson, Mrs. R. S. Barrett, Mrs. W. A. Moore and Mrs. O'Connor.

Monthly contributions in such amounts as the members feel inclined to give will constitute the fund for the support of the home.

A FINE COMPLIMENT.

nator Gordon Gives Captain Forbes Words of Praise. Senator John B. Gordon, in writing about Captain George B. Forbes, who is in the race for the clerkship of Fulton county, says:
"It gives me pleasure to unite with the friends of Captain George B. Forbes, of this city, in commending him as a gentleman of intelligence and of fidelity to duty. He has been connected with important, clerical and other dutes in this city. His record has won for him the approbation of our best people. It is not too much to say of Captain Forbes that he would fill, with credit to himself and to the appointing power, any position he would seek. He is a man of great energy and scrupulous honesty."

Captain Forbes has added two strong names to those already mentioned, Mr. Charles W. Hawthorne and Mr. Manuel G. Meyer.

SEVEN YEARS.

Brilliant Reception in Honor of Miss | He Sends a Ball Through His Heart With | Of the Unfortunate Quartette, of Which | That is the Term That Mand Dunham Gets in the Penitentiary

FOR KIDNAPING LITTLE MARIE MANNING.

She Was Tried Before Judge (Biohard H Clark—He Placed Upon Her Offense the Condemnation of the Law.

The story of that pathetic occurrence in all of its grief stiring details has already been fully presented to the public.

Never before has the community been so wrought up over the perpetration of any crime. The stealing of a little child in the broad glare of the daylight and along the bustling highways of the city, was not only a flagrant outrage but one of sensational provety.

Everybody in the city was aroused over the kidnaping and sympathy for the dis-tressed parents was expressed in nearly every home.

Tried Before Judge Clark.

The trial before Judge Richard Clark was a brief though satisfactory investigaregress was guilty of the charge, and the testimony of several of the witnesses, who were summonded, was not considered necessary in order to substantiate the charge. The hearing did not last over a few minutes, as the court and the jury were satisfied from the positive character of the testimony that no room was left for such nesses, a negro woman in the midst of her ony and put a stop to the evidence, as having fully made out the case, and excluded every other supposition except that of her guilt.

Sentenced for Seven Years.

Sentenced for Seven Years.

The sentence of the court was that of seven years of hard labor in the state penitentiary.

Judge Clark in pronouncing his decision was rather caustic. He referred to the nature of the crime and spoke of its effect on the mothers of the country. It was calculated to render them uneasy and apprehensive, and to breed a feeling of unwonted solicitude and anxiety.

The parents of the city will now breath more easily since the law has been vindicated and Judge Clark was spoken out in such a firm and unequivocal manner.

The time of the court yesterday was occupied in the trial of Wade Sexton, a negro man, charged with assault with intent to murder.

A GOOD PLAY BY GOOD PLAYERS.

A good-sized and highly enthusiastic au-dience greeted those sterling actors, McKee Rankin and Frederick Bryton, at DeGive's Rankin and Frederick Bryton, at Delive's last night.

When Ople Read wrote his book, "A Kentucky Colonel," it was with no idea of making a play from it, but, through the trained and skillful work of McKee Rankin, the best picture of southern life on the stage has resulted, and, with an excellent company presenting the drama, now a more enjoyable evening's entertainment it would be hard to recall.

blue-grass gentleman. Mr. Rankin fairs revels in the part, and no point is missed in his fine acting of it.

Frederick Bryton, as "Boyd Savely," a true type of the brave, hot-headed, but generous young southerner, won the sympathy of his audience at the start, and held it to the finish. His handsome appearance, his manly characterization of a very difficult role. A more picturesque character is seldom seen than Mr. Bryton makes of "Boyd."

Charles Crosby, as "Uncle Buck." made a most pronounced success of a very funny part, which pervades every scene, and is greeted with laughter at every movement or speech.

Harrison Wolfe, as "Phillip," was a manly and consistent hero of the play, and evidently made a strong impression.

Frank G. Campbell, as "Jinn Britisides," the leader of a faction, gave a strong rendering of a short but difficult part. E. F. Fosberg, as "Fre-"," was also splendid.

Miss Welton, as "Mrs. Osbery," gave a sweet rendering of the part, as dd. also, Miss Stoddard, as "Luzelle," and Miss Lee, as "Susan." Little Doris, a wee bit of a child, was excellent.

A real negro quartette of musicians and a wing dancer added much to the southern flavor necessary to the play.

In every respect, this fine company and good play is equal to the best, and should have crowded houses at both the matinee today and tonight.

While there he was the market Mr. C. F. Rice has just returned from New York city.

While there he was the recipient of a marked compilment in the shape of the chairmanship of the Chi Phi convention.

Mr. Rice is one of the most enthusiastic Chi Phis in the state, and while he was not a candidate for that position his affection for the order was of such a character that it gave him a prestige among the representatives present which resulted in his choice for that high and responsible office.

It is an honor of no small magnitude since the delegates present at the convention gathered from every part of the union, and besides many alumni were present, like Mr. Rice, in addition to the undergraduates.

The convention was in session for two days and the proceedings were interesting throughout.

A delightful feature of the gathering was and the proceedings were interesting throughout.

A delightful feature of the gathering was the Chi Phi banquet which occurred on the evening of November 25th. There were perhaps as many as three hundred wearers of the "scarlet and blue" present. The speech of Judge Emory Speer was the effort of the evening. It was considered one of the best which that eminent jurist has ever delivered. The next meeting of the convention will be in Washington city. The orator for that occasion will be Hon. W. L. Terry, congressman from the state of Arkansas. Mr. Eugene Mitchell, of Atlanta, will probably represent the muse on that occasion.

There was considerable selling of leading specks during the first hour's business this morning, and prices gave way sharply. The decline at one time ranged from 1-8 to 1 per cert, but after 11 o'clock selling ceased and there was sharp recovery under the lead of sigar trust, which advanced 1 1-8 per cent. Noon prices, however, except in case of trusts were generally fractionally below those of last night. The principal trading outside of sugar trust was in Reading, Burlington, St. Faul. Eric, Louisville and Nashville, Northern Facific preferred. The market was decidedly miore active after 12 o'clock. The selling of the early morning was resumed with renewed vigor. Some of the trust stocks unloaded free, especially sugar and whisky, at times, but they were quite firmly held and closed fagorifonally higher. Railroad share were not so fortunate, however, they were heavily sold in some instances, notably; the Grangers movement in New England, which looked very much like liquidation also began in the afternoon, selling of these stocks had bad influence on the general market, and prices declined in most instances, to the close. Late in the afternoon there was a savage drive at Gould's death, under which those stocks went off sharply: Missouri Pacific and Western Union closed 1-8 per cent lower, under selling induced by this rumor. Of course there was no truth in the report, but it had the desired effect. The stock market closed about the lowest of the day. Declines ranged from 1-8 to 2 per cent. gives is light weight, and it is, therefore, always risky to ship gold at the present time. There is no doubt that we will ship a large amount of gold before the 1st of January. It may not be this week, or next, but it will have to go just the same. For that reason, we are not inclined to buil the market, though a small rally may come any day. The industrials, on the other hand, remained very strong, with determined buying by insiders, showing that better things are to come.

Hubbard. Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, November 30—The Liverpool market this morning opened at a decline of 2-54d. The loss was quickly recovered, and the market steadily improved, the close being firm at 5-74d advance on last night's prices. Naturally this was a surprise to many traders here, who had made up their mind last evening that the advance was over and a further decline inevitable. The reactionary feeling so induced resulted in an improvement of about 6 points at the opening. During the day it further increased, March contracts before 1 o'clock having sold at 9.94. The buying, however, has been of a less aggressive character, and by many the advance here is considered disproportionalely small to that in Liverpool. Spinners took only 8,000 bales in the English markets today, which is hardly as much as might have been expected, considering the strength shown by futures. The general character of the market today would seem to be cray a decided abatement of the excitement that characterized the recent advance in prices. The buying, however, has been of the best character. Conservative men who were content to part with their cotton during the wild markets of last week have in many cases repurchased it today and yesterday. The weaker and more voistile element whose operations as a rule result in violent and unreasonable fluctuations have in a great measure liquidated their confracts, and the market is unquestionably upon a basis from which it cân improve if receipts should justify crop estimates of 4,00,000 bales or less. To the movement, therefore, we must turn in order to correctly determine the course of prices. It seems probable that for this week and where the first day of January will be at least bales. The movement for the third week in 7 is generally considered by the trade as deterthe probabilities for the balance of the season, a cotton has been held back it begins to make tarance by that time. Those who are believers out crop and a higher range of values.

NEW YORK, November 30—Liverpool this morning was strong at about 6-64d advance, closing at the best price of the day. The response on this side was only 10 pôints, which was hardly sufficient, considering that we have declined towards the close yesterday and might have expected a corresponding decline from Liverpool. The fact that our market did not better respond to the Liverpool advance was taken by many as an indication that the market here for the moment is tired, so that considerable realising set in this afternoon; and, assisted by liberal port receipts, the market sold off about 13 points from the highest, closing barely steady as about the same prices as last night. At the decline there was very heavy selling, whether for short or realizing by long account we cannot say. The market, however, took the large lines offered without yielding but a few points. Of the position in general there remains nothing to bejasid beyond what we have stated during the past several days. We are inclined to the belief that there is too much long cetten held by weak bulls, which places the market in a very sensitive condition, and for the moment is hardly likely to simile for any material advance; while, on the other hand, if the receipts for several days should continue liberal, as compared with last year, we are likely to witness a decided pressure to tell, which would give us at least a temporary setback. Our market tomorrow will be induced by Liverpool, and unless that market gives Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter.

cided pressure to sen, which would give us at each temporary setback. Our market tomorrow will be influenced by Liverpool, and unless that market gives us a decline to correspond to our own, values here will again recover. Since writing the above the report is that the heavy selling referred to this afternoon was for New ricans account. for New ricans account.

Lameon Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Sy. Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.
CHICAGO, November 30,—Wheat opened slightly easier on the big receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth, and on lower cables, also on the expectation that some of the larger longs would liquidate during the day. The market has been extremely narrow, with a big percentage of the business done it closing out December contracts, and in changing over December contracts, and in changing over December into May. The carriers appeared willing to take the December and sell May at 7c premium, or over, and a deal of wheat has been changed over today between 7 and 71-4c. Clearances of wheat and flour at the seaboard was large, but, apparently, had little effect, the market closing barely steady.

The feeling in corn at the opening was easy, but there was apparently a good general demand, which strengthened the market quietly. The best buying was supposed to be for local account, the market closing rather firm. It is expected that there will be fee deliveries of corn in the morning. Heavier receipts of hogs at the yards than were estimated yesterday caused an easier feeling in provisions at the opening. This weakness was soon recovered, however, on lileral buying, principally for May delivery by the clique. The market was extremely nervous, and orders of any size had quite an influence on the price. At the advance, we believe the early buyers, as well as the packers, for the first time in many weeks, are selling against hogs actually bought.

BEFORE THE PEOPLE.

The County Commissioners' Race Grows | Henry Miller, the Counterfeiter, Was Interesting.

JOE THOMPSON AND BARTOW BLOUNT

Become Candidates Before the Primary. Dr. Wilson Withdraws from the Reco-What He Has to Say.

There were several interesting develop-ments yesterday in the pending race for the two vacancies on the board of commissioners of roads and revenues.

Mr. Joseph Thompson announced himself as a candidate, as did Mr. Bartow M. Blount, the well-known young manufacturer of East Point. Dr. Henry M. Wilson withdrew from the race and last night it was announced that Captain J. M. Liddell would probably be a candidate, thought this an-nouncement is not authorized by Mr. Lid-

It was generally rumored yesterday that Mr. Joseph Thompson was seriously considering the advisability of announcing as a candidate. He conferred with his friends fully during the day, and the announcement in the afternoon that he would be a candidate was not much of a surprise, as it had been currently reported that he would be in the race. After taking the matter into consideration and weighing it up one side and down the other, Mr. Thompson authorized the announcement that he would go before the people for one of the vacancies. Of the candidates so far announced he is the only one who lives on the north side. Mr. Thompson is one of Atlanta's most enter rising citizens, and has done much for the development of the city. He has lived here since childhood and has probably as many personal friends as any man in Fulton county. They are already at work for him and it goes without saying that he will poll a vote of which he will have every reason and it goes without saying that he will poll a vote of which he will have every reason to feel proud.

Editor Constitution—I have decided to make the race for commissioner of roads and revenues of Fulton county, subject to the primary of December 7th. There are two vacancies to be filled, and my friends have been kind enough to urge me to announce my candidacy for one of them. If elected I shall leave nothing undone to serve the best interest of the people of Fulton county, in which I have lived since childhood, and it whose welfare no man in the county is more interested than myself.

Of the two candidates to be elected it in not required, except in equity, that one should come from one side of the county and one from the other. I live on the north side, and I believe there are no other candidates from that side. I think it right the each side should have one man of the two to be elected not that either of the two so elected should devote his attention exclusively to the side on which he lives, but in order that both sides of the county may be fairly and fully represented. I have the interest of the entire county at heart, and if elected will give it as much of my time as is necessary. It will, of course, be impossible to see all of my friends before the election, but I leave my candidacy in their hands. Respectfully.

The announcement of Mr. Bloumt's candidacy was not unexpected, as for some time past his friends have been urging him to make the race. He lives in the southern part of the county at East Point, which has never had a representative on the board of county commissioners. He has resided in Fulton county all his life and has many friends in the city, the is fully identified with the business interests of the city and having established himself in the commercial world as a man of business sagacity and upright character, his candidacy will no doubt take well.

The following card from Mr. Blount explains itself: The following card from Mr. Blount explains itself:
Editor Constitution—Please make the announcement that I will be a candidate for one of the vacancies on the board of commissioners of roads and revenues for Fulton county, subject to the primary to be held December 7th. As the time is short between now and then I will not have an opportunity to meet all my friends and soliciting their assistance in person; I therefore take this method of saying that I will appreciate their support, and that if elected I will do my utmost to make the county an ifficient public officer. Respectfully,

The friends of Messrs. Collier and Neal's friends say that there is no doubt about his election, and those of Mr. Collier say likewise for their favorite. Both are well-known business men and have many friends throughout the city, and their candidacy possesses an element of strength which will make itself felt at the polls.

Dr. Wilson Withdraws.

The announcement that Dr. Wilson will not be a candidate, will no doubt be read with surprise this morning. The report reached The Constitution yesterday, and to a reporter who spoke to him concerning the matter, he said in answer to a direct question as to whether or not he would be in the race:

tion as to whether or not he would be in the race:

"No, I will not be a candidate. I have received many urgent requests to make the race from numbers of the best citizens from all parts of the county, and have most flattering assurances of support. Without disparagement to the candidates alreidy announced, or any others, I feel that the support which has been so generously tendered me would insure my election. After carefully considering the matter, however, I have definitely determined not to make the race."

"This will be quite a surprise to the public, it was generally understood you were

"This will be quite a surprise to the public, it was generally understood you were going to run."

"Well," said the doctor, "it requires a great deal of time and work to properly discharge the duties of a county commissioner. Then too, aside from my private personal matters, you will remember that my name was before the grand jury last September for election to this same term and I was defeated. The people of the county in selecting their members of the legislature unanimously instructed them to change the law so as to have the commisioners selected by a vote of the people. But my name having been before the grand jury and the law having been since changed, I am unwilling to run again for this same term beginning next January. Of couse I very well understand jury defeated me would strengthen my chances with a great many who do not approve of elections by the grand jury, still, I have determined not to run for this term."

Dr. Wilson has made one of the best commissioners Fulton county ever had. His friends claim that he knows better how to build a public road than any other man in the state, and whoever may be elected, the county will certainly be well served if they keep up the high record made by him.

Green. I went to the door. He stated that he wanted some merchandise and asked me to go to the store and get it for him. I did not dream that anything was wrong, and promptly responded. After I got into the store and fixed the lamp I chanced to turn round and found three pistols in my face, Green and two other men having come in behind me. They were masked and demanded that I throw up my hands. I did so, and in a few minutes I was bound hand and foot and blindfolded. I protested against such treatment, but was silenced by the click of a revolver in my face and a warning that I had better keep my damned mouth shut or my head would go off. They left me in the middle of the floor, firmly bound, with one of their number to watch me with a pistol at my head, while the others plundered the store. They carried off sacks full of merchandise, broke into the postoffice and took everything within reach, the principal loss in this department being the stamps on hand, which were afterwards found in the possession of James Green when he was arrested.

"They left the store and locked the door, I at once endeavored to extricate myself, which I finally succeeded in doing.

"I notified the neighborhood of the robbery and the next morning we succeeded in locating them, and all three of them are now in jail in Calhoun. When arrested Ben Morrow implicated Chester Scott and Will Morrow in the Adairsville train robbery some time ago. We at once communicated with Sheriff McGinnis who came down with a posse, when the terrible fight at Plainville resulted, when we ran across Will Morrow. It is unnecessary for me to go into details here about it. Sheriff McGinnis, as brave an officer as ever lived, was fatally wounded by Will Morrow who also shot Frank Floyd and James Johnson. Floyd was very seriously wounded, though we hope he will recover. Johnson was not wounded so badly. Scott has been arrested but Will Morrow escaped. We think he is hiding out in the swamps of Calhoun county and seventy-five or a hundred men are now on his track A r

Yery Slick Methods of the Robbers Caught in Nashville.

ONE HUGGED ED HILL EFFUSIVELY

On the Night of the Big Parade, and Sooi After the Embrace Was Over Ed Missed His Diamond Pin-

The happiest man that Hon. Ed Hill saw on the night of the big jubilee here was a fine-looking, well-dressed stranger with a shiny silk hat, who ran up to the dignified legislator from Wilkes, and throwing his arms around his neck, exclain

"Aint it glorious-Cleveland forever!"

He then proceeded to give Wilkes county's representative a hearty democratic hug Legislator Hill returned the squeeze, for the feeling was good, and as everybody had taken a night off to celebrate the great victory, and were not particular who they hugged so the hugged was a democrat. He saw other people hugging, and he didn't have any objection to pressing to his loyal dem-ocratic heart a nice, slick-looking, joyful democrat, which the overjoyed genius who was holding him so fondly in his arms seemed to be. An introduction wasn't necessary preliminary to a hug that night, for conventionalites had been for the time discarded.

So it came to pass that Hon. Ed Hill, of the goodly county of Wilkes, hugged a total stranger to himself, but withal, a nice enough looking fellow to go into the cabinet, in the lobby of the Kimball house, on the night of the big blowout, first because the stranger appeared to be a joyful democrat who didn't have any of his acquaintances around to hug, and second because he did not want to embarrass such a good democrat as his affectionate friend seemed to be by refusing to hug him. If he had been disposed to chide himself for such a breach of etiquette, he would have found numerous precedents on every side of him, for just lots of people were hugging.

It was "Plunge" Fairchild.

The nice looking democrat who so effusive.

The nice looking democrat who so effusively squeezed Legislator Hill in the Kimball house lobby, was none other than "Plunger" Fairchild, the most notorious diamond thief in the country. This gay villian was captured in Chattanooga Monday, with Mr. Hill's diamond in his possession, for be it known that he had the bad taste to carry away the legislator's glittering gem when he walked off from him, after the happy hug. The fact that the man who had so uncer-emoniously embraced him had appropriated emoniously embraced him had appropriated his pin was discovered by Mr. Hill a few minutes after the two left each other's arms. But nowhere was the affectionate stranger to be found. He had lost himself in the crowd, no doubt continuing his celebration in another quarter. All that Mr. Hill could do was to report his loss to the detectives. He was greatly grieved at losing his pin, for it was a pretty one and very valuable. It had been the envy of all his brother legislators, for few finer pins are to be found.

The full story of the gang's thefts in different cities of the south was learned by Chief of Detectives Wright in Chattanooga from which place he returned yesterday Chief of Detectives Wright in Chattanooga from which place he returned yesterday morning. Chief Wright went to Chattanooga in company with Mr. Ed Hill and Mr. W. M. Scott, which two gentlemen had lost diamonds on the night of the jubilee. Mr. Scott lost his diamond in a big crush near the entrance to the Kimball house. They readily identified their stones among the collection recovered by the Chattanooga police. A fine stone stolen from Mr. Hightower, the druggist, was also recognized.

The First Arrests Made.

The First Arrests Made. The First Arrests Made.

The first arrests were made in the case in Nashville on Monday, when Chief Clark, of that place, pulled four crooks on suspicion. They were J. Wallace, F. Raymond, M. Connors and J. Carroll. They gave information which led to the arrest in Chattanoogs on the following day of the leader "Plunger" Fairchild a man of a dozen aliases, and a woman who gave her name as Hudnell, and said she was from California. Twenty-eight fine diamonds were found in their possession, and the Chattanooga officials took charge of taem. They were not aware, however, of the serious nature of the charge against Fairchild and allowed him to go after depositing $100. allowed him to go after depositing $100.
The woman, in whose possession the diamonds were found, was held, and is still kept under guard by the Chattanooga police. Immediately upon his release r air-child skipped the town, and now the Chatta-nooga police are kicking themselve for let-ting the slickest thief in the country slip through their fingers. He has doubtless gone for good, as long experience has ena-bled him to reduce the matter of going away to a fine art. Immediately upon his release Fair-bled him to reduce the matter of going away to a fine art.

Protecting the Woman.

The woman arrested had other diamonds in her possesion, which she refused to let the officials have. Sne is defended by Colonel Daniels, vice president of the police board. Captain Wright says the statement that the Chattanooga police had diamonds in their possesion which they refused to let him see is a mistake. The gnly gems he was unable to see were those the woman refused to give up. He thinks that if he could see the stones the woman has in her possession he would be able to identify others stolen from Atlantians on the night of the parade

Chief of Police Kilgore, of Chattanooga, would not let the Georgians have their diamonds just yet although he is satisfied that they are the proper owners. He wanted to keep the stolen collection together a little while longer. He said he would either bring them to Atlanta in person, or express them here in a few days.

The gang of thieves is, perhaps, the worst in the country. They worked Birmingham on the night of the 15th instant taking away many hundred dollars worth of gems. They made only one pight stands in use cities they visited. They were here only on the night of the democratic parade. Their methods were slick ones. They went together, and all of them were dressed in the finest style. When they flushed a man with a sparkling diamond they followed him, and when he got into a dense crowd one of the gang managed to hook his pin. The gang is a very high toned set of thieves, and would take none but the stones of the first water. On the night of the parade here the gang, or some other thieves, stole a gold watch from an old man named Baker. The watch was a old one, and the thieves hurled it into the street where it was found by the detectives.

The thieves will all be prosecuted. It is not likely that any of them will be brought here for trial as evidence enough has been found against them in Nashville.

They 35. Bargains. also go in this sale. In Men's Shoes we have no competition. Everytihng except my famous $3 Shoes go at cost. This is a great loss to me, but my associates want the stock reduced as low as possible by January 1st. Hence, the great sacrifice. Never in Atlanta have fine, first-class Shoes been sold as cheap as I will sell them.
